POLICE CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE OF 852 OVER GOVERNMENT FIGURES

Joseph Turner to Take Police Census Cards to Washington and Help Make Comparison--New Figures Smaller in One Ward and Show Big Increase in Three.

The police census of the city has been completed and tabulated, and the result was sent to the United States census bureau today by Mayor Canfield. It shows an increase of 852 over and above the federal census of this year. The police census shows a population of 26,736, while the preliminary federal census of this year tabulated 25,884. The population in 1910 was 25,908, and the police census would give an increase of 828 for the ten years period.

The federal preliminary census was announced on March 5th and showed a loss of 24 since 1910. Mayor Canfield made arrangements for a police census which was started March 15th. The census was taken by Officers Shader, Walker, Simpson and Fatum under the direction of Chief Wood. It required nearly four weeks to complete it. The census cards are arranged according to wards and streets and numerically by house number in the same manner as the federal census to facilitate comparison.

The bureau of the census has agreed to a comparison and a rechecking. In the wards where the differences are unimportant, no comparison or check will be made. In the wards where there is a material difference the returns of the two censuses will be compared. Mayor Canfield has appointed Deputy City Clerk Joseph Turner to represent the city and to assist in making the comparison. He will take the original police census cards to the bureau at Washington where the comparison will be made. The federal bureau will then appoint a special enumerator, commissioned and paid by the bureau, and the mayor will also appoint some one from the police department to represent the city, and they will canvass the additional families or persons appearing on the police census.

Mayor Canfield stated that unquestionably there would be some changes made in the police census. The federal census is made as of January 1st. There have been the regular number of births and deaths since that time but they almost balance each other numerically. There are also a certain number who are away from the city most of the time but who vote here and claim their legal residence here and many of whom own or rent a house here. The city officials claim these men should properly be included and that other communities have done so in similar cases.

Mayor Canfield stated that it would not be proper to discuss the differences by wards as the federal authorities have not given out the result of its census by wards. It appears, however, that in one ward the police is less than the federal census, and in three wards there is a large increase.

The police census by wards is as follows:

1st Ward	1,834
2nd Ward	3,022
3rd Ward	2,901
4th Ward	2,577
5th Ward	1,785
6th Ward	2,210
7th Ward	2,074
8th Ward	1,353
9th Ward	1,520
10th Ward	2,348
11th Ward	1,717
12th Ward	2,649
13th Ward	746
	26,736

WOULD PUT ICE UNDER P. S. C.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—Ice prices would be subject to the control of the public service commissions in the same manner in which rates of other public utilities are supervised, under provisions of a bill introduced in the legislature today by the joint legislative housing commission.

The bill puts the manufacture, harvesting, selling and distribution of ice under the control of the commissions, the entire ice business being classed as a "common carrier" and subject to the same regulations governing this class of utilities.

LOCAL CLERGY POPULAR.

Applause and Cheers Given When Appointments Were Announced.

The popularity of the local Methodist Episcopal pastors was attested by the applause with which announcement of their reappointment was received in conference on Tuesday. Not only was there applause, but there were cheers, and one zealous admirer of the Rev. George M. [illegible] let out a shrill whistle when the announcement was made. "You have reason to applaud," said Bishop Wilson after the noise had subsided.

COMPENSATION CASES HEARD

There were ninety cases on the calendar of Deputy Compensation Commissioner W. A. Abbott, of the state industrial commission, at the hearing held Tuesday at the supervisors' room at the court house. It was the first hearing in several weeks and whether it was the long calendar or the rainy weather, Commissioner Abbott seemed to be peeved at the least provocation. The attorneys and representatives of the insurance companies that carried the compensation claims were kept on their toes for fear of ruffling the temper of the commissioner. The greater number of the cases were of a small character and mostly of men from out of town.

RELENT TOWARD IRISH PRISONERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 14.—The Sinn Fein prisoners in the Mount Joy jail at Dublin will be released immediately, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dublin this afternoon.

The Irish general strike was called as a protest against the British government's treatment of these prisoners.

There was a great demonstration at Dublin today with thousands of persons parading through the streets. There were fears of a collision between the crowds and troops. Crowds gathered outside of the Mount Joy jail but were urged by Archbishop Walsh to return home.

A. Bonar Law announced in commons this afternoon that the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland has directed the prison board that all persons arrested under the defence of the realm act should "receive ameliorative treatment from the state until they are convicted of the charges against them." This means that the government will not treat political prisoners as criminals. It was such treatment that the Sinn Feiners protested against.

A hunger strike was begun by the Sinn Feiners to compel the government to treat them as political offenders.

RUHR REDS DIE WITHOUT TRIALS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Frankfort, April 13, (Delayed)—Leaders of the German Communists in the Ruhr district are being summarily executed as they are captured by the Reichswehr. Many of the Communist or Spartacist chieftains fled into Belgium when the German government troops began their advance, but many others who remained behind were caught and put to death.

Elements of the Reichswehr, who were withdrawn from East Prussia for use in the Ruhr district declare that they "will evacuate the Ruhr district whenever they desire regardless of orders from Berlin." Communists accuse Reichswehr detachments of looting.

The Reichswehr troops have continued to extend their zone of occupation, although it is reported that some of the units have been withdrawn. Some Reichswehr cavalry detachments were reported to have been seen south of the Ruhr river.

Most of the arms and ammunition of the Communists have been surrendered. Communist leaders declare that German government troops could withdraw from the Ruhr district immediately if they wanted to. The only thing they would have to do to prevent disorders would be to stop the shipment of arms and ammunition into the district.

Leading Communists throughout the Ruhr district are convinced that the German government intends to maintain troops in that area as long as profit from allied dissensions may result. Military restriction at Frankfort have been lightened.

Dance halls have been allowed to re-open.

Washington Strikers Back.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—Striking railroad workers here returned to their work today, agreeing to submit their difficulties to the railroad labor board. Embargoes upon freight have been lifted and transportation conditions were reported greatly improved.

CARRANZA FORCE SENT TO SONORA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, April 14.—Federal troops under General Manuel Dieguez, commander of the government forces in the northern military zone, are being sent against the revolutionaries in the state of Sonora, it was announced today.

General Dieguez was quoted as saying that the Sonora rebels would be "treated with an iron hand." He expressed confidence that the border state could be pacified within the next few weeks.

The route taken by the federal troops was not revealed.

General Dieguez came to Mexico City from Guadadelajara City to confer with President Carranza and then left the city.

A report that Sinaloa had joined the Sonora revolution was officially denied. The government also denied a report that the Mexican gunboat had been seized by the rebels. It is declared that, outside of the state of Sonora, Mexico is quiet.

ATTEMPT TO KILL CARRANZA FAILS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Agua Prieta, Mex., April 14.—An unsuccessful attempt to assassinate President Carranza was made last Friday in the latter's executive mansion at Mexico City, according to advices received here today by Roberto Carrillo, former chief of the Carranza secret service here, and now an official of the seceding state of Sonora.

The would-be assassin was Ernesto de Valdez, a captain in the federal army. News of the attempted assassination was suppressed until today.

The message to Carillo declared that Valdez, who was in charge of a detachment of troops under General Benjamin Hill, tried to stab President Carranza but that he was overpowered and lodged in a federal prison.

Following the episode General Hill was arrested, charged with "taking too much interest in the presidential campaign."

DIAMOND MILLS STRIKE SETTLED

The strike of the 200 employes of the Diamond Mills Paper Company at Saugerties has been definitely settled by the approval of the board of directors to general increase and shorter hours. The workers had walked out Friday afternoon but returned Monday pending a definite answer to their demands by President Ralph Thompson, which has now been given.

The concessions to the workers are: 5 per cent back bonus (making 10 per cent in all), girls to get an increase of 25 per cent, men to be raised 15 per cent, eight hour day for all, beginning Monday, time and a half for Sundays and holidays.

Charges Plan For New Coup.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 14.—The Communist newspaper Freiheit at Berlin charges that Monarchist army officers are preparing for another coup and that the Reichswehr is being cleared of officers loyal to the new constitution, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the German capital today. Freiheit declares that only officers are being retained in the regular army.

BYRD CONVICTION IS AFFIRMED

Negro Who Killed Officer Lawrence Must Die in Chair on Date to Be Fixed By Court of Appeals.

JAMES MONTAGUE BYRD.

By a decision of the court appeals of the state of New York, handed down Tuesday afternoon, the judgment of conviction of murder in the first degree in the case of the People against James Montague Byrd has been affirmed, and he will now go to the electric chair on some date to be fixed by that court. There is no likelihood that Governor Smith will commute the sentence to imprisonment for life.

Byrd was found guilty of the crime charged after a trial before a jury in county court, Judge Fowler presiding on May 3, 1919, and sentenced May 12th, following. He was taken to the death house at Ossining by Sheriff Smith, Seth Jocelyn, Tunis Haulenbeck and Sherman H. Merritt in an automobile, and while on the way there photographs of Byrd were taken by Sheriff Smith, the picture in The Freeman of this issue being a reproduction of one.

James Montague Byrd, who is a negro, will die for causing the death of James Lawrence, a police officer of this city, by stabbing him in the side with a knife on the evening of February 6th, 1919, death resulting from the wound at the City of Kingston Hospital on February 7th. Byrd, with two negroes, was on his way from New York to Shandaken to work on the tunnel job under way through Shandaken mountain. They had some drinks and while on Broadway near the city hall became noisy and Officer Lawrence who was on his way from police headquarters to investigate a call from the car barn, placed Byrd under arrest for being a disorderly person. When near the city hall, part way up the hill, Byrd jabbed the jack knife into Officer Lawrence, broke away and ran. Lawrence shot at the fugitive who was captured a few minutes later hiding back of some lumber alongside of a building of the Kingston Telephone Company on East O'Reilly street, and placed in jail. Later he was indicted for murder, tried in county court and found guilty. An appeal was taken and argued at Albany on March 4th, this year. William H. Grogan for Byrd, the appellant, who succeeded N. Frank O'Reilly, deceased, who was appointed by the court to defend the prisoner. Frank W. Brooks, assistant district attorney, argued the case for the People, as District Attorney Traver was called away by reason of the death of his mother at Wallkill.

ALBANY STRIKE SHORT LIVED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—The outlaw rail strike struck Albany last night for two hours, partially tying up the New York Central yards, one of the most important railroad junctions in the east. According to railroad officials, 150 switchmen and yardmen on the last day shift quit for hours after a strike meeting at 10 o'clock last night.

Railroad officials met with the men just before midnight and the shifts reporting at midnight and at 8 o'clock this morning both reported for duty. No difficulty is expected this afternoon when the four o'clock shift reports.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wilmington, Del., April 14.—Food prices began to soar today as a result of the outlaw rail strike. Meat prices led the advance with an increase of from five to eight cents a pound. There were slight increases in produce and vegetables.

BIG CITIES' FOOD HIT BY STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—With the food producing areas isolated by the railroad strike, the big population centers of the country are facing a threatened food shortage, while the producers stand to lose hundreds of thousands in money, according to figures from the bureau of markets here today.

Summed up the situation is based on these factors: The three biggest market centers of the east, New York, Philadelphia and Boston, are shut off from southern and western markets by both the railroad strike and local harbor tieups.

In the south and west are the biggest food-producing areas of the country, record crops of perishable foodstuffs including all the seasonable vegetables and fruits, may be forced to go to waste because they cannot be moved. Coupled with this waste in food, the producers of these crops are facing the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The bureau of markets is receiving scores of messages as to what transportation may be available. In Texas between 5,000 and 6,000 carloads of new onions are awaiting shipment. In eastern truck centers, such as South Carolina, lettuce and other early vegetables are ready for shipment in car load lots and no transportation is available.

In addition to the perishable food, live stock shipments have been curtailed to a point where some of the packing plants have ceased butchering.

To offset the expected food shortage, the war department has decided to allocate its surplus food stocks to various population centers.

WEST SHORE YARD MEN JOIN "OUTLAW" RAILROAD STRIKE

After Work Tuesday Evening Men Held Meeting and Yard Crews Numbering About Fifty Men Walk Out--No Reason Given For Strike--Will Meet Tonight.

The "outlaw" railroad strike which is spreading throughout the east, struck Kingston Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock when the local West Shore men to the number of fifty held a meeting and decided to join the strike. Not one of the fifty reported for work today. The men who quit include the engineers and firemen in charge of the three switching engines and the entire West Shore yard switching force in Kingston.

It is understood that the strikers will hold a meeting this evening with one of the brotherhood officials.

The officials of the road in Kingston are at a loss to explain the strike as no reason, it is said, has been given by the men, who simply voted to quit work and did so.

Inquiry at the West Shore station this afternoon brought out the information that passenger service is still about normal.

No freight trains are running north or south and not a pound of freight has been received in Kingston in several days. In fact the freight service on the West Shore road is completely tied up. The embargo is still in force at the Kingston freight station and no freight will be accepted.

STRIKE SITUATION SHOWS GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

(By The International News Service.)

Reports from all over the country indicated a general improvement in the railroad strike situation today.

The improvement, while not decisive, was sufficient to cause optimism among railroad officials generally and lead to predictions that normal service gradually would be restored all along the line.

East—Passenger service generally improved; many more trains running; workers reported to be returning to work in small numbers; freight service still tied up to considerable degree.

Central West—Improvement marked; men returning to work in small numbers; brotherhood chiefs announce that "backbone of the strike is broken." Railroad officials predict early return to normal conditions.

Far West—Through passenger service seriously impeded, five trains reported held up trans-continental roads.

At Washington—The cabinet meeting, for the first time in months, considered steps to end the strike. Plans were discussed for a temporary increase in wages for railroad workers to suffice until the railroad labor board can consider remedial measures.

STRIKE STILL PARALYZES N. Y.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 14.—Efforts were renewed today to end the unauthorized railway strike which for almost a week has held New York tightly in its grip, paralyzing freight traffic, curtailing passenger service and causing widespread discomfort.

Representatives of the brotherhoods, headed by Timothy Shea, vice president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, scheduled another conference with representatives of the strikers at Jersey City. Mayor Hague of Jersey City, Mayor Hylan of New York and Health Commissioner Copeland were to sit in at the meeting and lay the case of the public before the opposing factions.

Shea was confident today that the end of the strike is in sight.

"Too optimistic," was the way the strikers termed his attitude. They blamed him for the announcement of a "settlement" which was made at the conclusion of the first conference yesterday.

Shea predicted today, however, that "the strike will end as quickly as it arose." Similar optimism was put forth by L. C. Griffing, vice president of the Brotherhood of Engineers. He said the strikers' grievances were real, but that they had taken the wrong way to right them.

Meanwhile the strike continued to isolate New York today. Little or no freight was moving on any roads and passenger service was crippled on all. The passenger service was reported improved on the New York Central and the New Haven but there was little improvement on other lines.

The freight situation was worse. Jersey commuters stoked their own trains into Manhattan again today, brokers swinging shovels and lawyers acted as brakemen and conductors. Hundreds of volunteers from all walks of life and professions have offered their services to the roads and many of these offers have been accepted.

Ten commuters' trains were run over the Erie, manned partly by volunteer crews.

The Jersey Central reported passenger service 60 per cent normal and the return to work of forty men out on strike. Volunteer crews would not be used for the present, it was stated.

Passenger Service Hit in Calif.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Calif., April 14.—Railroad strikes here and in other sections of California have extended today to passenger traffic. According to Santa Fe headquarters here today, at least nine trans-continental passenger trains are tied up at various points along the line. It was said that that no more passenger trains would arrive from the east "until further notice."

Winners Meet Tonight.

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the Winners' Class of Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school held this evening at the home of Mr. Matthews, 110 Downs street. A large attendance is desired.

RAIL WORKERS DEMANDS GROW

Those Prepared by A. F. of L. Railroad Department Convention For Presentation to New Labor Board Will Be 12 to 15 Per Cent Higher Than Originally Framed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—Having come out definitely against the outlaw strike, which has paralyzed transportation in many parts of the country the 700 delegates to the fifth bi-ennial convention of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor—representing more than 700,000 railroad employes—today pitched into the work of preparing their wage increase program for submission to the new labor board.

It was learned today that the increases sought for as long ago as January 1919, and still pending will be further augmented by from 12 to 15 per cent. This new increase will be demanded in order to keep pace with the steadily mounting cost of living since the request for increases was first made.

The general chairmen of the sixteen recognized railroad organizations will submit their wage claims to all of the railroads of the country on April 28. No chairman is authorized to accept any settlement that does not grant the requests in full or state the position of the railroads. The decision of the railroads is to be made known to the general offices of the department not later than May 20. The whole controvery will thus be thrown into the hands of the president's newly appointed labor board.

A. O. Wharton, international president of the department, and one of the members of the board, announced that $10,000 had been spent for the services of a nationally known statistician, who has made a thorough survey of the increasing living cost with particular references to profiteering outrages.

"All of this information will be submitted to the labor board and will startle the country," Wharton declared.

The outlaw strike issue provoked an all day battle behind the locked doors of the convention hall. The radical element was surprisingly strong and there were many wild demonstrations favoring the insurgents. The general officers, led by Wharton and Jewell, had difficulty in keeping the meeting in hand.

COMMUTERS ALSO STRIKE BREAKERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 14.—The long suffering commuter satirized in the funny columns and on the stage, gave a wonderful demonstration of his power today by practically "breaking" the strike in the passenger service departments of the Erie and Jersey Central Railroads.

Before noon twenty trains loaded with suburban business men were brought into the terminals. All were manned by volunteers—brokers, lawyers, merchants, salesmen, engineers and other professional men. One was manned by ex-service men and was dubbed the "A. E. F. Special."

Women gathered at the stations along the route, waving flags and cheering the volunteers.

BARGAIN MATINEES 20c EVENINGS 30c

Lengthening Life of Silk Stocking.

"No economies are small," says a French proverb, and the professional stocking mender's job is evidence of thrift as understood by the Parisienne. "Here," said one of the craft, "are 30 pairs of silk stockings which have been through my hands more times than I can count, and look at them." They were patched and darned till there was little of the original left, but as [illegible] remarked, "with [illegible] they still make an effect?" Before the war madame paid three half-pence per pair to her mender and provided the thread; now she gives fourpence or fivepence and expects miracles of endurance from the fragile web. Where the mender formerly spent ten minutes she now must devote an hour to some of these stockings, and it is difficult to see how she gets a living. But madame's motto is, "Throw nothing away," and she lives up to it.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 14, 1920.

The Democratic party wouldn't be half so badly off were the men in it who know something about public affairs in the majority. They are not and those who don't know dominate. The result is the party can not maintain the confidence of the people.

Apparently the governor's social welfare program will not get very far this year. Some of it was as socialistic as anything any of the five members who were unseated ever did. The time is coming when the people will wake up to the truth that they should support the government and not expect the government to support them. Senator Wadsworth said this and he said something worth while.

Threats of physical encounters in the state senate may make good reading in the newspapers but they do not improve the standing of the highest legislative body in the state. When you get right down to the facts it has a tendency to make people believe some of the unfounded charges that are made against legislators. It is only natural, if the members by their actions invite criticism, that the people will believe some of the things they hear.

The man for whom we can all feel sorry is the fellow who has a heap of ability, and integrity with it, but who for some reason cannot sell his capacity for anywhere near what others charge with half the capability. There are many of these men around and they are worth their weight anywhere. What they know is available to those who know less but who know where to acquire information quickly. There is hardly a corporation or plant of any kind or profession where this type is not to be found. They invariably have the complete respect of those with whom they are associated but they lack that which is necessary to get to the front. The "front" does not mean much to them, perhaps, and this may explains things to a certain degree. But nevertheless, they are the salt of the earth and are entitled to applause even in their obscurity. In many instances they are the foundation stones of great accomplishments.

MORE "PICKETING."

In America women may do with impunity what men would be promptly locked up for doing, and so women were permitted to "picket" the White House. But the picketing of the British Embassy is another matter. According to international usage by common consent, Ambassadors, Minister and consuls must be protected by the states to which they are accredited, not only from assault but from any sort of persecution or annoyance. When certain women "picketed" the British Embassy in the supposed interests of the Sinn Fein element in Ireland, the government, without waiting for complaint to be made, proceeded to interfere. When the demonstrations from the street were stopped the picketers caused "literature" to be dropped on the embassy from an airplane, a useless performance that could not have given them much gratification.

In any case the government has made it clear that, though friends of Irish independence may push their agitation to the limit where only Americans are involved, they must let foreign embassies and consular quarters alone. A responsible nation must protect its official guests, whatever the demands of domestic "politics."

Notwithstanding all that has been said relative to compulsory health insurance, the hearing on this subject proved conclusively that all the people are not for legislation of this sort, even though some of the advocates would have you believe that it was unanimous. The facts which stood out clearly were that the employer did not want it, the employe did not want it, and women did not want it. The governor and some women have been claiming that the people were crying for this legislation but when the hearing was called the opposition was formidable, moreso than the proponents. There may be some ideas in the proposition that can be worked out satisfactorily after the subject has been given further consideration, but at the present when one half is for for and the other half is against, and this applies to all concerned, it would be unwise to force the enactment of the proposed laws. The fact that came to the fore was that while those behind the bills said everybody was for them, the hearing definitely disproved this statement. The legislature is not blocking these bills but it declines to pass upon matters that are not fully understood. A case in point as to rush legislation was that which was passed last winter in the interest of women and which in July threw 1,000 of them out of work.

GOT TYPHOID DRINKING FROM RONDOUT CREEK

Two Men Employed At Hiltebrant's Shipyard Developed Disease—One Is Dead, Other Recovering—Health Board Favors Clean Up Week—Other Matters At Monthly Session.

The two cases of typhoid fever reported in Kingston last month developed from drinking water from the Rondout creek it was brought out at the monthly session of the board of health held Tuesday evening at the city hall. Mrs. Hattie B. Michael, in the absence of Mayor Canfield was elected chairman, with Commissioners Huhne, McBride and Kaufman present.

John Wolf of No. 73 West Pierpont street and J. George Lang of No. 147 Hunter street were employed on the Hiltebrant shipyard at Connelly, and both developed typhoid fever after drinking water from the Rondout creek. Mr. Lang died on April 3 of the disease while Mr. Wolf was reported as recovering.

As both typhoid cases developed in the town of Esopus the board believed they should be credited to that town and not to Kingston by the state health department.

Mrs. Michael brought up the matter of child welfare work, which had been referred to her at the last meeting. It was decided to hold the matter open until later.

The state health department is sending health boards of the state requests to observe the week of April 26 as Clean Up Week. The board approved a Clean Up Week, but left the time to be designated by Mayor Canfield.

In another column will be found the milk reports, on which the board took no action, aside from ordering the report filed.

The reports of the officers were adopted as read. They follow:

Report of the health officer:

Contagious Diseases Reported

	1920	1919
Diphtheria	2	11
Influenza	32	58
Measles	86	2
Scarlet Fever	6	1

Total number of treatments	2

The two cases of typhoid fever, one of which was reported during the current month, were probably infected by drinking the water from the Rondout creek, and are really not chargeable to the city of Kingston. This matter has been referred to the state department of health.

After the exceptionally severe winter, it is more necessary than usual to have a "Clean-up Week." The aid of the department of pubic works should be sought to make this effective.

Literature and advertising for a "Swat the Fly" campaign should be obtained at this time and a continued effort made during the entire summer months to make this a "Fly-less" town by eliminating the breeding places, screening of foodstuffs, and proper covering and disposal of garbage and waste materials.

MOTHERS MEET

In District Convention at Saugerties Church Today.

The annual district conference of the New York State Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations is being held in the Reformed Church of Saugerties today. The morning session opened at 9:30 and the afternoon session at 2 o'clock.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Poultney Bigelow, who spoke on "Education in Olden Times."

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Mother Earth's Green Dress.

How many of us ever wonder why Mother Earth chose to dress in green? The earth was not always green. Once it was as naked as the moon; but there came a day when the weather grew cool enough to demand clothing, and at that time, no doubt, our beautiful planet began to look about to choose a color scheme for her dress. Why she chose green is not of record, but that she chose it with her whole heart every pleasant place of creation testifies. Scientists explain that this is merely a natural phenomenon, the color being chlorophyl pigment, turned green by action of the sun. But why it did not turn blue, or red, or black, no scientist knows. About all we can say is that Mother Earth wanted a green dress, and she got it.

The Dirt You Cannot See

No true housekeeper is satisfied with mere surface cleanliness. The family's health and her own peace of mind demands the complete removal of hidden dirt with its lurking germs as well as that which can readily be seen on the surface.

Dirt cannot resist the powerful, purifying air stream of the Royal. It gets all the dirt on the rug, deep down in the rug and even underneath.

Draperies, furniture, walls ceilings, moldings and the "out-of-the-way" corners and crannies all quickly and easily yield their toll of dirt and dust to the Royal, which cleans by air—alone!

Du Pont—my choice of the 400 brands of paints and varnishes—know why?

DU PONT
Save the surface and you save all

Shortest answer to that question is, the name of their product. The first handful tells you the quality and when the job is finished you KNOW that. I chose Du Pont Paints and Varnishes out of the 400 and more leading brands sold in the country because I believe they are the Best; and I won't sell you anything else if I can help it.

Stands to reason that a concern that has been in business over a century will never risk their reputation putting out mediocre goods.

Look around your property—you need some paints—or varnishes—or enamels—or wall-tints—or finishes. See me!

Chinese Music Peculiar.

Chinese music has always been beyond the grasp of the occidental mind, appearing to have neither rhyme nor reason to it. As a matter of fact, a Chinese musician must be very skilled, indeed, in his profession to hold a position in an oriental orchestra. Chinese music is not written. The words of some of the favorite songs have been preserved, but the music has been handed down from father to son for generations that go far back before the day of the Confucians. When music is played it is played according to the memory of the musician and his idea of interpretation. A musician varies the performance as his best judgment dictates, and the strings, reeds or brass may break in at almost any time.

Early Indian Villages.

Indian villages east of the Mississippi as described and pictured by early observers, were brought together by D. I. Bushnell, Jr., in a bulletin issued by the bureau of American ethnology, Smithsonian Institution. Some of these ancient villages pictured in the bulletin occupied the very sites of what are now great cities, among them New York, Richmond and Montreal. The types of these Indian habitations are shown as described by those who saw them at the close of the sixteenth and during subsequent centuries. These houses reflect the environment in which their builders lived and the social conditions of the inhabitants. Although the walls of the buildings have disappeared, the village sites can still be recognized.

SULLIVAN NOW A TRUCKMAN

One-Half of "The Sullivan Twins" Has Embarked in Business in the Old Home Town and is Ready for Orders.

James J. Sullivan, one of "the Sullivan twins," so well known to Freeman readers by reason of their unique letters from France while they were in the A. E. F., has decided that the old town is good enough for him and has started in the general trucking business. Mr. Sullivan is located at the home of his mother, No. 29 Rogers street, has bought a new and efficient automobile truck and is now ready for business. His telephone call is 451-J, and all orders telephoned to that number will receive prompt and courteous attention. It isn't necessary to say that last to anyone who knows him or who read his letters from France. That he will be as good a truckman in civil life as he was a soldier in the army goes without saying.

LAST HONORS TO WILLIAM BROPHY

WILLIAM BROPHY.

That the bringing back of the first body of an Ulster county man who died in the great war to rest in the earth of his native land was not to pass unnoticed was made plain by the large attendance at the funeral of Private William Brophy, held Monday morning at St. Joseph's Church. A guard of honor from Kingston Post, American Legion, under Corporal Reeves, also paid last tribute to their former comrade and fellow townsman and fired a volley at the grave, after which taps were sounded by Bugler John White. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Private Brophy died in England while a member of the 831st Aerial Squadron.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, April 14.—Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet this evening in its rooms in Spinneweber's Hall on Broadway.

The new pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. George E. Wright, expects to preach on Sunday, April 18, in his new charge.

Miss Violet Cutler of Broadway, who has been ill, is convalescing.

Miss Melinda Van Aken of Main street is not so well at this writing.

The many friends of Mrs. Louise Schwark in Port Ewen were shocked to hear of her sudden death, Tuesday morning. The children have the sympathy of the entire village.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Conn of Valley Breeze Farm on Salem street delightfully entertained the following guests Saturday evening at an old fashioned home party: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Aken and family, Mrs. Eleanor Parsell and daughter, Lottie, Mrs. Melville, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boice, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hotaling, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Hotaling and daughters, Grace and Viola, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Suffin, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hotaling, William Hotaling, Mrs. Mary Hogan, Miss Sarah Hotaling, Howard Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hotaling, Merritt Every, George Ingrate and Mrs. Elliot Hotaling of Coytesville, N. J. Phonograph, piano and other music was rendered. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. All left for home in the "wee small" hours of morning, after spending a pleasant evening in the old homestead where in times past and gone they had gathered on many similar occasions. The guests were conveyed to and from the party by Merritt Every in his auto stage.

Biblical Mention of Butter.

Butter, which is supposed to have been churned unintentionally for the first time by the Arabians, who carried milk in skin bottles on camel-back trips in the early ages, was probably mentioned for the first time in writing in the Bible, Genesis xviii: 8. At that time Abraham in urging Sarah to prepare a meal for the visitors, it was said: "Took butter and milk, and the calf which he had dressed and set it before them and he stood by them under the tree and they did eat."

Merit That Makes Mileage —In Tires for the Smaller Cars

Such extraordinary competence and carefulness as are characteristic of all Goodyear manufacture likewise characterize Goodyear's building of tires for the smaller cars.

Only very unusual experience and endeavor make possible the high relative value built into the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch Goodyear Tires in our Plant No. 2, the world's largest factory devoted to these sizes.

In addition to the larger sizes Goodyear builds, a daily production averaging 20,000 tires of these smaller sizes alone makes them easily available, regardless of the big demand, to owners of Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, and other cars taking these sizes.

If you are one of these owners, go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He carries a stock.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $23.50

30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in water-proof bag $4.50

ARMENIAN RELIEF DRIVE EXTENDED

Very satisfactory returns in the local Near East Relief Campaign are reported by Charles R O'Connor, treasurer. It was hoped by the local executive committee that funds derived from Kingston would be sufficient to care for 300 little orphans in Armenia. To date sufficient returns have come in to insure the food and shelter which may mean life itself to about 100 or 125 little ones.

Due to this delay the local executive committee has extended the campaign for one week, closing Wednesday, April 21, when a supper will be served to the committee and workers at the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock, to be provided by the national committee.

The anual convention of the Rhinebeck District Luther League will be held in the Lutheran Church at Saugerties on Tuesday, May 4.

Goodyear Fabric Clincher Tires, either in the Double Cure All-Weather Tread or the Single Cure Anti-Skid Tread, are waiting here to render unusual service to owners of small cars.

Louise Phillips & Mrs. Ida Fexer. Mrs Elsie Lentino's baby

Pretty little Louise Philips, 5 years old, did not know her mother, she told the court in the legal fight for her custody in the Bronx supreme court, New York. Pretty Louise was legally adopted by Mrs. Ida Fexer, a dancing teacher, in November, 1918. Her mother, Mrs. Elsie Lentino, who has been wed a second time, is seeking to regain the custody of her daughter. She declares that she was not in a position to care for Louise when she permitted her to be adopted by Mrs. Fexer. Questioned by the court the child clung to her foster mother and shook her head when asked if she knew Mrs. Lentino. Mrs. Fexer and her husband, who are well-to-do, assured the court that the little girl would have the best home and education their means would permit.

Don't Be a Crape Hanger.

It's easy to fall into the crape-hanging habit. Lack of initiative and sluggish or no thinking have put many a well-meaning chap into the drooping-mouth class. Then with the proper inclinations to depressing thought the way to mortuaire levels is easy. Of course you don't want to be a groveling worm of the dust. Nobody ever does. But then there are few that by right are stars, though many more would be if they would pay the price. The way of progress is the way of toil. It's much easier to find fault with the fellow that's moving up than it is to do the moving yourself. So the only justification is to paint the other fellow dark. It's a contemptible trick, but there are many that do it.

"Paradise Lost."

Few poetical works in English have so frequently been translated into other languages as "Paradise Lost." It has appeared in French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek, Armenian, Bohemian, Danish, Dutch, Hungarian, Icelandic, Latin, Manx, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Swedish, and Welsh, and there are many editions of the work in these languages. It has, in fact, been considered, and very justly so, one of the most typical, and one of the very finest poems as a representative work worthy of all praise throughout the world for its unrivaled poetic beauty, its wealth of expression, and grand imaginative quality.—George C. Williamson.

DOG OWNERS MUST TAG PETS

A number of dogs in Kingston have not been tagged by the owners as yet, and the city authorities will shortly begin rounding up the delinquent dog owners who will be reported to the state department of agriculture, under the state law. So far about 800 dogs have been licensed in this city.

PREPARING FOR "EVERYWOMAN"

Shakespeare knew human nature always, and certainly when he said, "The Play's the thing!" And "Everywoman" is one of the plays which is especially "The thing." That's why the young people of our high school are going to give this acting version of Henry W. Savage's production, "Everywoman; her Pilgrimage in Quest of Love," at the high school auditorium on the evening of Friday, April 23rd. Another reason why they are giving this play is because they want to raise money enough to fully cover the expense of publishing "The Maroon," and that without grafting on the over-asked merchants by soliciting advertisements, etc.

And the entire production will be a high school affair, with the possible exception of some of the costumes. The full cast of characters, about thirty in number will appear in a subsequent issue of The Freeman. Later announcement will be made of the participants in the choruses and the aesthetic dances. And then there are the musicians whom all will want to know. Every bit of the stage scenery and setting is being prepared by the manual training class, and Mr. Van Wert the janitor is giving some very valuable assistance in this partigular field of activity. The choruses are being trained by Miss Philips, supervisor of music in the public schools while Harry P. Dodge is supervising the instrumental music. The aesthetic dancing is being looked after by Miss Riseley, and the whole performance is under the efficient and artistic supervision of Miss Noone.

Just to give the public an idea of the enthusiasm of the students participating it should be known that the different "principals," as well as groups did valiant duty in rehearsing their parts during the Easter vacation week, and that is going some.

The seniors already have the full number of dollar tickets out for sale and tomorrow, the seventy-five and fifty cent tickets will be ready for sale. Tickets may be purchased of the high school students.

"Everywoman" is a morality play with the characters twentieth century men and women, realistic, ideal and withal thrilling and interesting to a degree.

SACRIFICES FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

That the spirit of service and sacrifice is developed and inspired by and through the Near East Relief is demonstrated again, through an incident related to a Freeman reporter by Mrs. Hayes, one of the workers on the staff of Newton H. Fessenden, chairman of the Kingston Near East Relief. With one of her aids she called on a widow who lives on Hanratty street. The widow has four little children and after the reason of the call was explained she said that while she had to work hard supporting herself and children she was glad to donate half a dollar for the cause for herself and 50 cents each for her children.

An uptown Sunday school superintendent's letter to Chairman Fessenden tells with what zest ten little members of his Sunday school class went about helping the orphans made by Turk cruelties. The children by selling chickens, potatoes, etc., acquired $28.38 on an original investment of 25 cents each, and yet there was no complaint of profiteering in such a cause.

Charles R. O'Connor at the Rondout National Bank is local treasurer of the Near East Relief Fund.

Give the World Your Best.

The way to success lies away from crape-hanging methods. The world wants sunshine. It also wants to think that people it trusts are getting along in the world. The "be your best" habit is innate and is sure to come out when we want to impress people. That's why the young man puts on his best suit and tie when he's going out to call on the fair one. That's why maidens of every age make you wait until they "slick-up" before you are permitted to cast eyes upon them. Oh, life is a great game, and it wants the best you have. It wants sunshine. It looks upon showers as blessings and clouds as protection from frosts. It feels the thrill of life and responds to the challenge of opportunity. And what is more a fellow feels better for having met it. Lend no willing ears to the crape hanger. The world has no legitimate place for the crape hanger.—Grit.

Human Ravens.

There are human ravens who blight character as readily as they throw a pall over everything else. It hurts them to hear any one well spoken of. Their acquaintance for policy's sake is always discounted with that suggestive and accusing "but." While posing as arbiters of the world they are its rotten spot and badly need the knife. Instead of telling folks what a help you have been to the community they take delight in whispers that are more dangerous than outright condemnation. It never comes to them that you may be a benefactor to men in spite of the fact that you do not represent their peculiar type of thought. In fact you may be infinitely above them as a community asset, but that makes no difference when they can get a sympathetic ear. There ought to be some way of making defilers of character make good, with apologies.

Origin of Chess a Mystery.

The wisest men of the past few hundred years seem to have been utterly at a loss to account for chess. The origin of the game is variously ascribed to the Greeks, the Romans, the Babylonians, the Scythians, the Egyptians, the Jews, the Persians, the Chinese, the Arabians, the Castilians, the Irish and the Welsh. There was an ancient Irish game called "Fithcheall" which is assumed to have been identical with chess, but encyclopedic authority says that "it appears not to have been a sedentary game at all." Perhaps the ancient Celtic kings played it on their mantelpieces, standing up, or possibly it was originally an outdoor sport and very strenuous. The changes that may occur in a game in the course of fifteen centuries or so are surprising. Even a modern game may change so in the course of fifteen months that a former player will [illegible]

Catch Pheasants on Hook.

Pheasants are devoted to raisins and poachers, knowing this, fasten a hook upon a length of fine line and baiting the hook with a raisin, tie the line to a peg in a hedgerow. Wild duck are caught in a similar fashion, the bait in this case being worms. Another poachers' trick is the use of fat balls. These are small balls of fat. In the center of each is placed a short length of whalebone or some similar substance, with the pointed ends bent together. When swallowed the fat melts and the sprung whalebone is released, the end sticking in the bird's gullet and choking it. Partridges have regular dusting places like pullets. One poacher hit upon the plan of putting a quantity of pepper into one of these dust baths, thereby blinding the unfortunate birds that came to use it. He was then able to pick them up quite easily.

The Most Welcome Tire That Ever Came to Market

Men Who Appreciate Superlative Values Prefer The Brunswick

In every great tire factory, the chief question is: "How much can we give for the money?" And the product depends on the policy adopted.

Every man who has become acquainted with Brunswick Tires knows that Brunswick standards are again evident. This famous concern—noted as a leader in every line it entered since 1845—has once more proved that its policy is right.

A perfect tire is simply a matter of knowledge and standards and skill. No secrets nor patents prevent making an ideal tire.

But standards come first. For in tire making there is vast room for skimping, for subtle economies, for hidden shortcomings. Makers without the highest standards don't build high-grade tires.

The Brunswick organization of tire makers includes a brilliant staff of technical experts. Not a man among them has spent less than 20 years in handling rubber.

Each is a master of his craft. And the new ideas they bring to the attention of Brunswick directors receive sincere consideration.

Every proved betterment is adopted unanimously.

The Brunswick Tire is a combination of acknowledged features—plus Brunswick standards of manufacture.

The result is a super-tire, the like of which you have never known before. The kind of a tire you will gladly join in welcoming.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires.

Try ONE Brunswick. We promise a surprise. And we feel certain that you will want ALL Brunswicks.

Then good tires will have a new meaning to you.

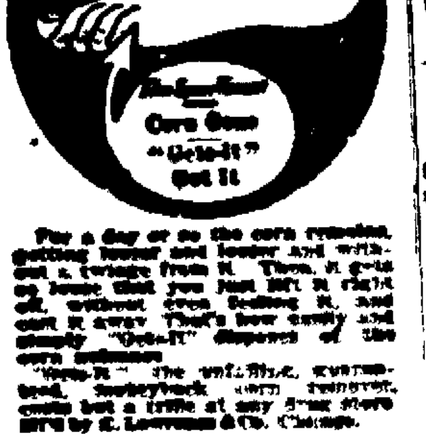
Corn Pain Stopped Quick

"Gets-It" Loosens Them So They Lift Off in A Jiffy.

The corn pains cease as soon as a few drops of "Gets-It" reach the corn. It goes out of the hurting business forever.



For a day or so the corn remains, getting looser and looser and without a twinge from it. Then it gets so loose that you just lift it right off, without even feeling it, and cast it away. That's how easily and simply "Gets-It" disposes of the corn nuisance.

"Gets-It," the unfailing, guaranteed, money-back corn remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

TECHNICAL JOBS ATTRACT BOYS

What are the goals of the school boys and girls of today? To what careers do they look forward?

Their ambitions lie in the fields of real action according to a "straw vote" taken at St. Stephen's school in 28th street near Third avenue, New York, which is a typical grouping of city children, the boys seeming to favor technical careers, and the girls, showing the influence of modern times, mainly having a business occupation in the back of their heads. It is only a generation back where such a straw vote taken in a class of girls, would probably have shown the most ambitious to have a career as a nurse in view, with the majority explaining that they expected to live at home until they married and made homes of their own. Probably in the "way back" of each of the girls' heads in behind the thought of the business career lies a similar thought, closeted away from the suspicion of any one but "mother," but it didn't show in the vote.

The straw vote was taken to illustrate one phase of the work planned under the division of social action of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York. This organization is to be set up through a great enrollment campaign during the week of April 15th to 25th.

It will be one of the duties of the division of social action to aid boys and girls to reach the objectives they set for themselves, when they can prove their earnestness and qualifications. It is a new departure in work of this kind, in keeping with the broader view of society's duty to the child which is one of the intangible results of the war. Genius has often been strangled by lack of opportunity or encouragement and it is the idea to give opportunity to the sons and daughters of parents who are not able to provide it themselves. When the plan has been fully developed, they will be given advice and assistance to enable them to receive training in the direction of their ambitions.

The result of the "straw vote" at St. Stephen's is interesting. Out of a class of 24 boys and 24 girls, the following ambitions were revealed.

Boys

Electrical engineers	4
Civil engineers	3
Electricians	3
Priesthood	3
Merchants	3
Lawyers	2
Doctor	1
Traveling Salesman	1
Journalist	1
Broker	1
Army officer	1
Musician	1

Girls

Stenographers	10
Accountants, office workers	5
Teachers	2
Doctors	2
Nurse	1
Chemist	1
Actress	1
Journalist	1
Authoress	1

After the members of the class had expressed their aims in regard to the future, they were asked to explain them in short essays. That their ambitions are based on sound foundations was proved in the essays. All of the pupils are under 14 years of age but they displayed remarkable ability to reason in their writings, and a great consideration of something more than "self" in their ambitions.

Francis E. Loubet, who was born in France but is thoroughly American now, in expressing his desire to be a doctor, said:

"During the late war I was very much impressed by the heroic sacrifices made and the wonders accomplished by our physicians and surgeons in the dressing stations and base hospitals. I know I shall have to overcome some obstacles but once I've entered on the great medical field, the feeling, the joy, that must come as the result of good deeds done, is in itself a reward."

James J. Gannon wants to be a lawyer and takes as the "star" to which he "hitches his wagon" none other than Abraham Lincoln.

"What he has done others can do and though at present I can scarcely see my way ahead, I am convinced that where there is a will, there is a way," wrote James.

Willard J. Broderick wants to be a civil engineer because "the people of the west who come here and see our subways will want them for their cities."

James J. Gallagher wants to be an electrician "because it exercises all the powers of the mind."

William J. Mulholland, an engineer, "to make enough to support my mother, who has been good to me, and because there is always a chance to make an invention."

Then there is Stephen M. Burns, who wants to be a journalist. He says "the work is lively, and from the salary I hope to receive, I will be able to deposit some money in the bank each week."

Perhaps the most unusual ambition among the girls is that of Anna Callahan, who wants to be a chemist. She tells why in a very interesting way, saying among other things "because it is the one profession which never grows old," and "from the researches of this profession may be traced every great step in the progress of the human race."

Despite the present status of teachers' pay, Dorothy Campbell wants to be a teacher "because those who instruct others unto justice shall shine as stars for all eternity."

The demands of the medical profession in the way of education and service do not frighten Cecelia Frasch and W. Ruth Lannigan. Catherine Kenneally, who wants to be an authoress explains that "if I have an idea to convey to others, personally I can reach but few, but by my writings I shall be able to communicate with people all over the world."

May Explain Egyptian Plague.

When all the waters of Egypt turned to blood it must have been rather appalling. Port Gerace, in Calabria, beheld a similar phenomenon in 1902, when a fiery red cloud approached from the sea, presently covering all the heavens, and a rain of blood followed. When the rain dried, however, the matter that gave it its crimson hue was found to be volcanic dust which had been carried in the clouds and deposited on the rain drops.

Spanish Licorice Industry.

The manufacture of licorice extract and paste is an important Spanish industry. This is a comparatively new industry as formerly the root was exported unmanufactured. Over 6,000,000 pounds of the root were exported in 1918 and more than 600,000 pounds of extract and paste.

Offering the New Spring Modes

It is a significant fact that in our show rooms, almost at any time of the day, may be seen people well known in the fashionable circles of our city.

The attraction is, of course, the extra smart and stylish modes which we are able to offer them.

Just now there are simply tremendous varieties of types—a wealth of bloom and color.

Flower hats of individual character, wonderfully smart ostrich motifs, placed on the hat in an unmistakably original manner, Parisian whims in the way of trimmings and colors, that in themselves make a hat out of the ordinary—

All are here for your delectation.

There is no place just so fashion-good as our millinery salon. Splendid selections.

After Whooping Cough—What?

This is No. 4 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Whooping cough is the "meanest" disease that childhood is heir to. While rarely fatal in itself, except to children under two years of age, still it hangs on so long—the coughing paroxysms are so violent, preventing proper sleep and digestion—that when the disease does disappear it leaves the child weakened and run down. In addition the violent coughing racks and strains the air passages and after recovery this irritation frequently remains.

During this period of convalescence the child should be most carefully watched until full strength is restored and the air passages regain their normal tone. A prominent authority even goes so far as to say—"There is more criminal neglect in connection with whooping cough than with any other disease."

While the disease is active, Vick's VapoRub usually helps to lessen the violence of the coughing, but it is during convalescence that Vicks is most valuable.

Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying swallow a small bit the size of a pea.

Children's digestions are delicate—easily disturbed by too much "dosing." Vicks, therefore, is particularly recommended, since it is externally applied and so can be used often and freely without the slightest harmful effects.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 234 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

Protection

Love for the departed is expressed in the desire to protect the body in its final resting place.

Most graves are not permanently dry. Melting snows and heavy rains cannot drain off from the catch basin formed by the loosened earth. This water is bound to seep into the casket unless it is protected by an air-tight vault. It is estimated that in three burials out of ten disinterment is necessary.

Grave vaults guarantee absolute protection. Built of heavy steel, electrically welded within and without, they are so constructed that no water can enter. They have been tried and tested.

Grave vaults are a part of the complete and high class equipment of The Funeral Home which is conducted by William C. Kukuk at No. 167 Tremper avenue, Kingston, N. Y.

LAST HOURS OF THE CONFERENCE

Although Conference had adjourned to 9 o'clock Tuesday morning there was nothing doing until 9:20 at which time Dr. Shriver stepped to the front and announced that it was time to do something besides gossip. He wanted to see things going and proposed to start something even though he had no authority. A service of song and prayer was begun and various preachers made addresses. A letter from W. F. Brush who is too ill to attend Conference but sent greetings and asked to have The Freeman sent to him was read and the secretary directed to write a reply.

Dr. Baragwanath, sent by Bishop Wilson to preside, arrived at about 10 o'clock and some business was done, the first being the adopting of the following resolutions introduced by Dr. P. N. Chase, Dr. Bell and Dr. Wilson:

"Whereas The Daily Freeman of this city has been represented at our Conference, by a most competent reporter, and also by one of the editors, and has published a larger and more complete account of our proceeding than any other paper has ever done

"Therefore, Resolved as a Conference we extend to the publishers of The Kingston Freeman our most hearty thanks for their painstaking care and effort to give the fullest publicity possible to our proceeding."

The resolution concerning Child Welfare was reconsidered and that part asking that a new department be organized was stricken out.

The report of Statistician Augustus A. Walker was read and adopted and a vote of thanks given Mr. Walker for his work, which is truly monumental and had kept him busy during the entire session making up intricate tables from data often incomplete and none too legible. It is because of this hard work that Kingston friends saw so little of their friend, "Gus" Walker while Conference was in session.

Dr Belcher talked about the Five Points Mission and the practical work it does helping people to help themselves.

The customary complimentary resolutions thanking everybody and everything were reported and adopted by a rising vote.

Bishop Wilson entered the room while this report was being read and was greeted with applause.

Conference Treasurer G. W. Rice presented his report showing total receipts of $383,289 as compared with $281,285 the preceding year, an increase of $102,004. This report was adopted and a vote of thanks given Mr. Rice.

Various committees were appointed by Bishop Wilson.

G. A. Shahan, in a brief address presented a purse of $100 to W. F Compton, retiring superintendent of the Poughkeepsie district, who made fitting acknowledgment.

The minutes were read and approved, there was a short devotional exercise and the appointments were read, after which Conference adjourned sine die at about 1 o'clock.

GRADUATES OF ULSTER TO MEET

A meeting has been called of the graduates of old Ulster Academy and all those interested in the old school, to be held next Tuesday evening in the office of Superintendent Michael in the high school at 8 o'clock. The idea back of the meeting is to form an organization and elect officers, and discuss the matter of arranging to give the prizes to graduates of Kingston high school who attain the highest marks in certain subjects. The graduates who have called the meeting are anxious not only to have all those who graduated from the old school present but all those who were interested in Ulster Academy.

COUNTED IN ERROR.

An Honest Citizen May Mean One Less in Police Count.

Editor Freeman:

Enclosed postal may be of interest to your readers as an aftermath of the census dispute. Mr. Bunten is interested in Kingston but is too honest to wish to be counted when he is not actually a resident.

A considerable number who insist they were wrongfully omitted by the federal enumerators have sent their names to me since my compilation of 217 names were submitted through Supervisor Steacy to the census bureau. These were all reported to the chief of police during his taking of a census of the city. I am sure we will show a considerable gain over 1910 and that the bureau will publish it in the final figures. I notified the chief of police so he will deduct Mr. Bunten, if included. Poughkeepsie may smile, but we will catch her yet.

WILLIAM C. DE WITT,
Postmaster.

Kingston, N. Y., April 12.

Postmaster DeWitt:

Dear Sir:—My mother made a mistake in giving my name to the policeman who took the census. I do not reside in Kingston. Have not for a number of years, and do not pay income tax here.

Of course, I am interested in Kingston and would be pleased to have the city show a material gain over the 1910 census. However, I cannot be counted in two places.

Yours very truly,
W. E. BUNTEN.

FAVORITE FRITTERS.

Fritters are easy to prepare and even an amateur need not fear for the result. A fritter that should be served more often (it is so good) yet comparatively unknown is:

Parsnip Fritters.—Cook the parsnips until tender by steaming them after they have been carefully cleaned. When tender remove the skins and put them through a puree strainer. They are then ready to be added to the fritter batter and cooked in hot fat. Deep fat is the sort to be used in frying when possible, yet they are very good cooked in a little fat and carefully drained on paper to remove the surplus fat.

Fritter Batter.—Take one cupful of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, two eggs beaten light, yolks and whites separately, one tablespoonful of olive oil or melted butter and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix and beat, folding in the whites at the last. This batter may be used for all sorts of fritters, such as the parsnip. Take a spoonful of the seasoned parsnip, dip into the batter to cover well, then fry.

For corn fritters the milk and oil are omitted and the corn is mixed with the other ingredients and fried in flat cakes. One can of corn is used.

Cherry Fritters.—Take two cupfuls of scalded milk, one-fourth of a cupful of cornstarch and the same amount of flour, one-half cupful of sugar, a dash of salt, one-fourth of a cupful of milk and the beaten yolks of two eggs. Cook until smooth and thick, add half a cupful of maraschino cherries cut in halves and pour into a buttered mold to cool. Cut in squares, dip in egg crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with the following:

Maraschino Sauce.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with one-third of a cupful of sugar, add two-thirds of a cupful of boiling water, one-fourth of a cupful of maraschino cherries cut in halves and one-half cupful of the sirup. Cook five minutes before adding the cherries and sirup, then add a half tablespoonful of butter and serve.

Biblical Tribes.

Excepting in the cases of such Semitic nations as the Jews, Bedouins and Edomites it is difficult if not impossible to trace any connection between the world nations of today and those mentioned in the Scriptures. The Bible is in great part a history of the family of Abraham and of one rather contracted corner of the earth, and nowhere professes to instruct in details of ethnological or any other science except that of theology. The world has generally agreed to derive the black races from Noah's son Ham, the Mongolians from Shem and the Caucasians from Japheth and beyond that (except in that all are not agreed) it is not wise nor is it helpful to push serious investigation.

ULSTER'S FIRST EMBRACERY CASE

Robert N. Harris Did Not Know It Was Wrong To Convey Message From Attorney Ostrander To Juror In Webster Action Which Resulted In Mistrial—One Who Approached Juror Grimm Not Disclosed—Matter Now Up To District Attorney.

Any one who attempts, or acts so as to influence a court jury, etc., corruptly, by promises, entreaties, money, entertainments, threats, or other improper inducements, commits the act of embracery, and Tuesday for the first time within the history of the Ulster county bar a case of alleged embracery came before a court in this county for investigation When Justice Nichols called the members of the bar, the attorneys in the Webster vs New York Central Railroad, et al., to order in the court room about 2 15 o'clock the jurors who had been listening to the testimony for three days were in the jury box. He said "I am now going to sit as committing magistrate to make a John Doe investigation as to certain rumors as to the commitment of the crime of embracement."

He said that each of the jurors would be called, sworn and questioned, and as each juror was called he was asked as to whether he had been approached by any one in regard to the case, heard any rumors as to any approachment, or if any offer of money had been made to him

Juror No 1, George Grimm of New Paltz, first called, testified that he had heard talk that some money could be made out of the case from the railroad but did not remember whether it was on the street or on the railroad where he heard it He did not know who the man was who said it The man was about 35 years of age, and had a sandy moustache Thought it was the next day after the trial began. He said he did not tell the man he was a juror in the case Jurors from No 2 to No 11, were all questioned and testified they had heard nothing and were not approached

Juror No. 12 who was not in the jury box but seated on one of court benches, was the last called, being Aurie A Harris, who resides at Plattekill. He was sworn and told the court that on Sunday forenoon a gentleman came to his house and said a man had asked him to come there and tell him that he could make $50 by standing by the West Shore railroad He told the man that he was a juror and did not want to talk to him about the case Juror No 12, in reply to questioning by Justice Nichols and Mr Brinnier said the man who came to his house was a relative—a third or fourth cousin—and did not think he meant to do any harm; that his name was Robert N Harris and that he lived at Clintondale Juror Harris said he did not know who the man was who had asked his relative to come to his house and tell him he could make $50 as related. He said he had received a post card from Robert Harris telling him that he was coming to see him on Sunday.

Justice Nichols then excused all the twelve jurors from further attendance at the court He said that Sheriff Smith had gone with a bench warrant to arrest a man who it was alleged had taken part in the alleged attempt at embracery and was expected in a short time The sheriff and Jailor Robert Evory arrived about 3 o'clock with Robert N Harris whom they arrested while at work and ten minutes later he was brought before Justice Nichols

Harris was told to be seated in the witness chair near Justice Nichols, who told him that there had been rumors of an attempt made to influence a juror in the Webster case, and because of such rumors, there had been a mistrial of the case In order to ascertain the facts a John Doe investigation to inquire who was guilty of embracery was being had and it was said he, Harris, had knoweldge in the matter It was his duty to inform him that whatever he said could be used against him in criminal proceedings and he could either tell what he knew or say nothing at all. If he desired to tell what he knew he could sign a waiver of immunity, and, the court said, if he desired he would make out a waiver which Mr Harris could sign. As Mr Harris said he desired to tell what he knew and would waive immunity the certificate was made out and was signed by Harris.

Judge John G Van Etten, attorney for Mrs Webster in the negligence action, first examined Mr. Harris and asked him if anyone had approached him to speak to Juror Aurie A. Harris about the matter. He said that such an offer had been made. On Friday of last week he was in Clintondale and saw Attorney DeWitt Ostrander, and Mr. Harris stated that Mr. Ostrander, who is a lawyer and a justice of the peace, asked him if he would see his cousin, who was a juror in the Webster case. He replied that he thought he would see him and then Mr. Ostrander said that he could tell his cousin that if he would stick to the railroad he would be able to make $50 and never need know where it came from. Mr Harris said he went to his cousin's home and told him what Mr. Ostrander had said to him and was informed by his cousin that being a juror it was impossible to talk of the matter. To this Robert N. Harris remarked that as his cousin had been sworn as a juror to give a verdict according to his best opinion and it was "up to him to use his best judgment." He said that he had been asked to tell him what Mr Ostrander said and he could "act on his own pleasure."

In reply to the question as to whether he had been promised anything for himself when talking to Mr. Ostrander, he said that he had been promised nothing except that he "would be paid for his trouble." It developed that the post card which was received by the juror, Harris, from his cousin, had been sent by his wife before the trip to Clintondale on Sunday and before his visit to Mr Ostrander's. It had been customary to visit at times Aurie Harris and, in order that the folks might be at home, they usually sent a post card notifying them of his coming

When examined by Mr. Brinnier, Mr Harris said that no amount had been promised him for his trouble The only amount mentioned was the sum of $50 which would be received by Juror Harris, in case he "stuck to the railroad," and he never would know where it came from

When questioned as to whether he knew it was wrong to make such a statement to a juror, Mr Harris said he did not know it was wrong; Mr. Ostrander was a lawyer and a Justice of the Peace He had not talked to anyone else and no one else had talked to him

In reply to Mr Brinnier's question, Mr Harris said that he had never had any touble with Mr Ostrander and they were good friends. He had been up to see Mr Ostrander on the night that the offer was made

George Grimm Juror No 1, who had been approached during the trial by some unknown person, was next called and questioned and said that before he had been called on the case he had seen Mr Ostrander, and that Ostrander asked him if he had seen the Juror Harris from Plattekill and he told him he had not To this Mr Ostrander replied that he would like to see him

At the conclusion of the testimony Justice Nichols stated that unless the attorneys had some other suggestion to make he would refer the matter to District Attorney Traver for further investigation Mr Brinnier stated that from the testimony it appeared that Robert N Harris had no knowledge of wrong doing when he conveyed the message to the juror

The testimony was written out for the signature of the witnesses and court went into recess until the second Monday of June on which date the case of Webster against the New York Central railroad and another will again be taken up for trial.

LOWDEN WINS IN ILLINOIS

Endorsed For President By Illinois Republicans By 80,000 Plurality—Wood Second—"Hi" Johnson, Not On Ballot, Got 40,000 Votes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, April 14.— Governor Frank O. Lowden today is the winner of the presidential endorsement of the Republicans of Illinois, his home state. His plurality in Tuesday's preferential primaries is more than 80,000, according to the latest returns.

Lowden's victory over General Leonard A. Wood, his nearest competitor, is not a state-wide one, however. Wood swept Chicago and the rest of Cook county by a plurality of 27,533 votes, surging into victory in this section of the state in the heat of one of the most bitterly fought contests ever staged in Chicago

Despite the number of votes polled by Lowden and Wood, however, one of the big sensations of the day was the showing made by Hiram Johnson. With his name absent from the ballots, no less than 40 000 voters in Cook county's ten congressional districts alone wrote it in as their choice for president, a result unparalleled in Illinois politics

In the Democratic primocratic primaries, latest returns indicate that Herbert Hoover will win by a small margin, with Governor Edwards, Attorney-General Palmer W G Mc Adoo, William Jennings Bryan and James Hamilton Lewis receiving most of the remainder of the votes

In the Republican primaries the returns from 2,821, out of 3,242 precincts in the entire state give Lowden a total vote of 144 638 and Wood 52,531 With this as a basis the state vote complete is expected to be Lowden 166,638; Wood 58 031.

CAILLAUX TRIAL NEARING END

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, April 14.—Formal demand for a verdict of guilty was made today by Theodore Lescouve, the public prosecutor, when the treason trial of former Premier Joseph Caillaux was resumed before the senate sitting as a high court of justice.

M. Lescouve addressed the court as he began to reinforce the previous testimony regarding the activities of the ex-premier in Italy. It was then that the prosecutor insisted upon a verdict to the effect that M. Caillaux's conduct was traitorous to France. If the demand is fulfilled it will entail a prison sentence of at least five years and banishment.

It is now believed that there will be a verdict about April 24.

The prosecutor, in his address to the court, laid great stress upon the role adopted by the defendant in Italy, where he is alleged to have proclaimed the theory that France was defeated in the war.

The ex-premier is also said to have worked for a separate peace.

M. Lescouve also emphasized the fact that, before the war and while M. Caillaux was a power in the French government, he favored friendship with Germany, rather than with England.

It was evident during M. Lescouve's speech that the recent happenings in the Anglo-French diplomatic world had been favorable to the defendant.

There were many persons among the spectators, who have been following the case closely, that made the prediction: "If M. Caillaux had had his way England would not be mistress of Europe as she is today."

The defendant was evidently aware of the change of sentiment in his behalf and looked more cheerful than he did at the last session.

The resumption of the case brought a large crowd to Luxemburg Palace. The gallery was filled to overflowing. Among the most interested spectators was Mme. Caillaux, who listened intently to every word of the prosecutor's speech and who smiled cheerfully at her husband from time to time, especially when incidents of the Italian trip were recalled.

Chinese Engineers Hate Toil.

In no branch of modern progress has China advanced during the last twenty years more than in engineering, if we except, perhaps, medicine. The Chinese engineer has come to stay. He is a much-criticised person, and the principal objection the up-to-date modern engineer offers against him is that he refuses to undergo the long and tedious period of training necessary in any branch of engineering today; if he can become an engineer without soiling his hands or [illegible] off the coat, he is quite willing to pass as having mastered engineering, but he objects to the toil and the dirty

BEAUTY CULTURE.

Most women think that beauty culture consists in an amazing variety of bottles and jars and boxes, with salves and liquids to be applied externally. A few others scorn all cosmetics and pin their entire faith to plain soap and water. Whereas, the real beauty culture steers a middle course between these two extremes, and starting by making the body clean and pure within, uses a few external applications to help out the good work.

For example—cold cream alone will not make a good complexion. But neither, these days, will soap and water. An excellent digestion and a healthy body come first, but even so, dirt will seep into the pores and soap alone will not clean it out. Air that is too cold roughens the skin, and cream of some sort must be used to soften it. Too hot sun burns the skin, and cream must be used to soothe it. A few hours' ride through a swift wind in an auto, means that the skin will dry, and that dirt particles will be forced in by the rush of air. Here again cream is useful.

Cosmetics Are All Right If Used in Moderation.

Exercise or exposure usually causes the pores to become unusually active resulting in a thin film of oil over the skin, and a resulting shininess. Modern standards declare that this is not beautiful, so the powder box comes into its own. Powder is as necessary as soap, almost. Indeed, it is a question whether pure powder on the skin is not better than impure, dirt particles. However, powder and all other applications should be thoroughly washed off before one retires, leaving the skin free and clean for the third of the day spent in rest.

Camels Failed to Thrive Here.

Camels and their near relatives, the dromedaries, have been introduced in this country from the old world at various times. Some were brought to Virginia in 1701. But, owing to lack of knowledge of their habits and of proper methods of caring for them, these attempts have proved failures.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE BALTIMORE ORIOLES.

"Ah," said one of the young Baltimore orioles, "it won't be long now before it is spring and in the spring everything so fine happens.

"We choose our mates and our mates take us after a long while."

"Yes, I heard my father was ever so long waiting for my mother. They said that sometimes he'd ask her a hundred times a day to marry him."

"That was what they said of my father," said the first young Baltimore oriole whose name was Jackie Oriole, while the second speaker was named Brucie Oriole.

"It is what they said of my father, too," said another oriole, "and that my mother kept my father waiting the same way."

"Just what happened in our family," said yet another.

"And in ours," said still another.

"It's the way of the Baltimore orioles," said Jackie. "But I'll keep after the one I care for until I win her," he said, cocking his head on one side.

"So will I," said Brucie. "I don't want to take the wrong one. No, indeed, I'd rather wait for the right one, I would."

"But, dear me," said Jackie, "how the little dears will keep us waiting."

"It won't be long now before we begin our courtship," said Brucie.

"And we'll go North again," said Jackie.

"When did your parents leave for the South?" asked Brucie.

"The third week in September," said Jackie.

"Mine left the fourth week," said Brucie. "We leave about the same time, don't we? Our great family is much alike—every Baltimore oriole is much alike."

"It's very sensible," said Jackie. "It's nice to think of being further North when they have their beautiful summer. In fact, we go ahead of the summer. We go North, so I've heard, for last year I wasn't around in the early spring, when things are beginning to come out.

"That's very sensible. We see the lovely spring and the summer, and we leave when everything is starting to go, the leaves, the summer birds, and the midsummer flowers."

"My father is so handsome," said Brucie, "that it is no wonder my mother loved him."

"Ah, you're handsome, too," said Jackie, "and your turn will come soon."

"Ah," said Brucie, "I don't want to be so handsome as I do want to be loved and to have a happy time. Oh, happiness, that's the finest thing in the whole world!"

"Birds Like Crumbs."

"It is," agreed Jackie, "and it is just what my family have brought me up to believe."

"Same with me," said Brucie.

"My mother was such a good homemaker," said Jackie.

"Ah, yes," said Brucie, "our home life was very lovely. That's the way it should be. What's the use in having a home life if it isn't happy and nice and comfy and cozy and cheery with each trying to make it so nice for the other.

"That's the nice part of a home and a home life that it can be made so jolly and nice.

"Why, where my family lived last summer there was the nicest family. They lived in their garden and on their back porch so much of the time and without any visitors around I'd hear them laughing and joking and doing things for each other and having such a fine time. And when birthdays came! Well, such celebrations as they used to have.

"And they never forgot that birds liked crumbs of birthday cake, too!"

"Well," the Master Orioles all said, "we must be moving North soon. It's almost springtime again."

"And in the meantime," said another, "let us not waste too much time in talking, but let us eat lots of grubs and worms before we go, for that helps along nice people."

So the happy, cheerful, gay Baltimore oriole family worked hard eating and destroying bad insects and bugs and chirping all the time, saying, "We like people and we try to help them! Let's all eat yet another bug!"

"And," added Brucie, "it's a very pleasant thing to do, too!"

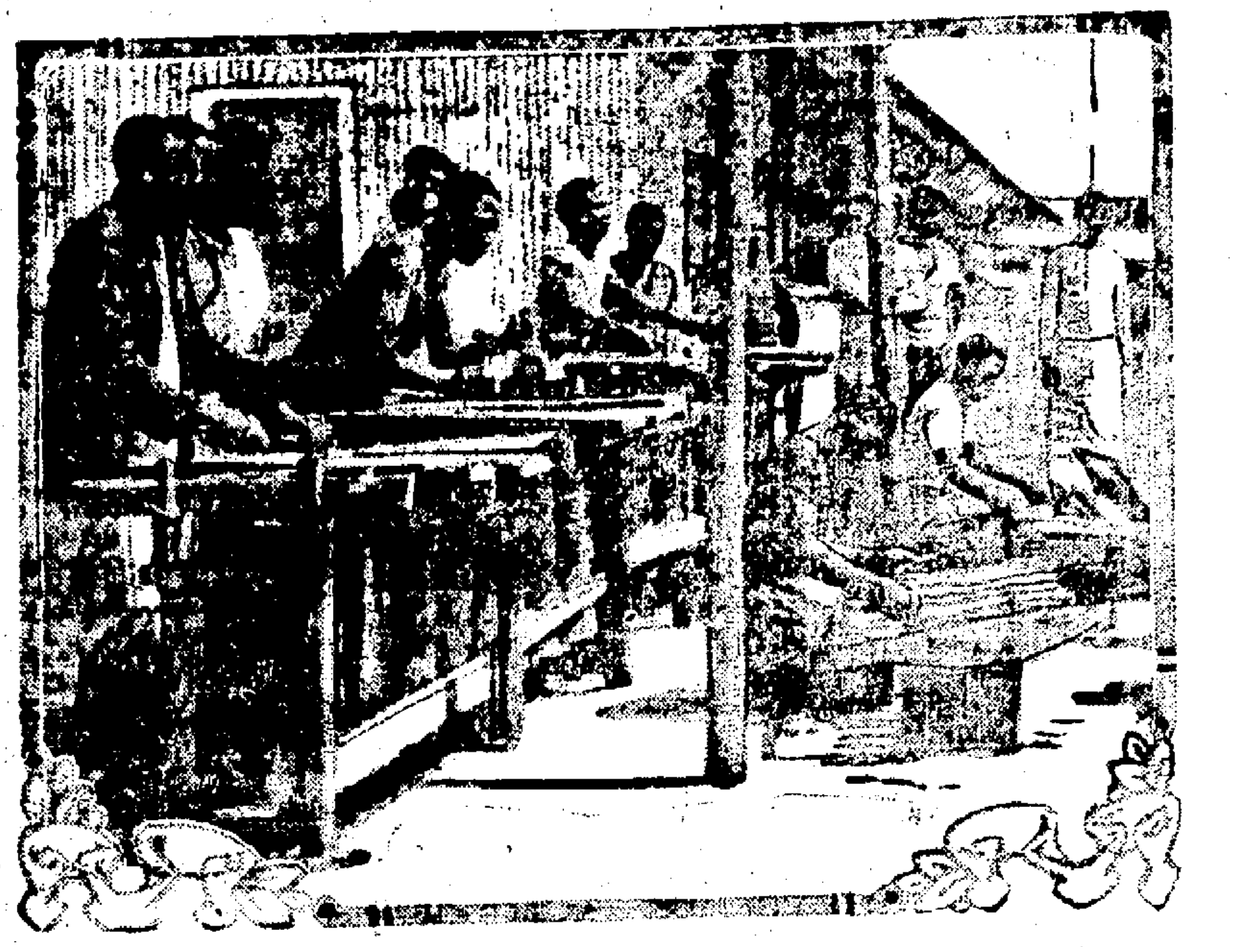
Oil Cans from U. S., Made Into Grand Pianos, Provide Jazz for African Moonlight Dances



"Canned music," in the opinion of most people, is purely an American production. But the real canned music is being produced in Africa. The natives are now utilizing all the empty cans they can get hold of for the manufacture of "African pianos" which provide their dance music.

Large oil cans compose the lower register, fruit cans the middle register, and small jam cans the upper register. These are covered with boards and strips of bamboo and are much like our xylophone.

"All Africa dances when the moon shines." At the great mining compounds of Johannesburg and Kimberley, however, the natives do not confine their dancing to bright nights. Dancing is a combined religious rite, an outdoor sport and general pastime for Sunday.

The great African mines each year draw hundreds and thousands of natives from the interior. Immediately these people start work in the mines they become the prisoners of their employers. They live in closed compounds connected with the mines and here, separated from the outer world, they work, eat, sleep and play. They are allowed, however, to have their witch doctors in the compounds with them.

Under the direction of the Interchurch World Movement, a number of missionaries visit these compounds on Sundays and try to interest the workmen in various means of improving their living conditions. More than 1,200,000 natives in the union of South Africa are already converts to the kind of civilization that Christianity brings to their country.

All the bad features of industrial life, however, are making frightful inroads on the primitive moral codes of these people. A comprehensive program of more schools, churches and especially hospitals is planned as a result of the survey that the Interchurch World Movement is now making in Africa for America's evangelical Protestant churches.

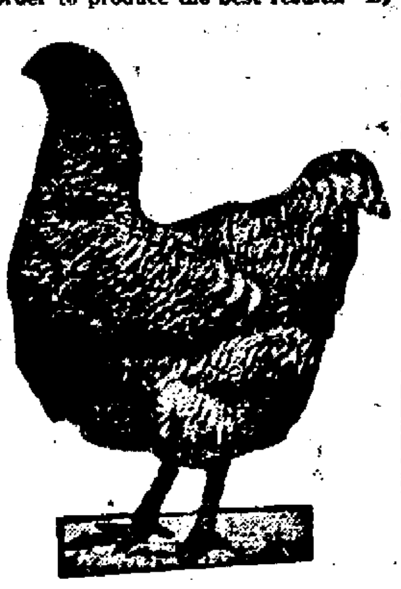
FARM POULTRY

PURPOSE OF A SMALL FLOCK

It Is Primarily for Eggs and Therefore Fowls Should Be Fed With This End in View.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The actual purpose of keeping a small flock of fowls is primarily for egg production. Consequently they should be fed with this end in view. Practically every housewife has a quantity of table scraps, vegetable peelings and "leftovers" that can be utilized by feeding to hens. Supplementary to such feed, however, a grain and dry mash should be provided in order to produce the best results. By supplying the fowls with all available table scraps it will usually cost from 50 to 75 cents a year per fowl for grain and other feeds. A good egg laying ration should consist of the following: Three parts corn meal and one part beef scrap mixed together and fed in a dry-mash hopper to which the fowls will have access at all times. In addition to this a scratch ration consisting of equal parts cracked corn and oats should be fed twice daily. When no table scraps are available it will take about one quart of scratch grain daily for twelve to fourteen fowls. However, this can be reduced when table scraps are fed and a certain amount of natural green feed, such as grass, is available.



Purebred Fowls of General-Purpose Type Are Best Adapted for Back-Yard Flocks.

In providing the fowls with a suitable house it should be remembered that the essentials of such a building are fresh air, dryness, sunlight and sufficient space so that the fowls will not be crowded. Usually each fowl should be allowed four square feet of floor space. If available, scrap lumber from dry-goods boxes, etc., can be utilized to construct such a house. The cost will be considerably less than when lumber is purchased. If sufficient lumber is not available for the entire house a rough framework well covered with ordinary roofing or tar paper will answer the immediate needs.

When the heavier fowls (Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, etc.) are kept all females should be disposed of at the end of their second year, inasmuch as in most cases they will cease to be profitable at the end of that time. The lighter breeds (Leghorns, etc.), however, can be profitably kept as long as three years. By disposing of the hens in this way a part of the flock must be renewed each year. Consequently, considering that the percentage of cockerels and pullets is usually about the same, and that a certain percentage will die before reaching maturity, it is customary to hatch more chicks each year than there are hens in the flock.

Overfeeding kills more chicks than underfeeding.

* * *

Little and often is a good feeding rule for newly hatched chicks.

* * *

Eggs for incubator hatching should be fresh, the fresher the better.

* * *

This is the time of year when poultry quarters need to be made safe from rats.

* * *

Ducklings should be ready for the green duck market at from ten to fourteen weeks of age.

* * *

A good, well-regulated incubator will hatch eggs with far more certainty and do it more cheaply than can be done with hens.

* * *

Much of the trouble often found in brooding chicks is due alone to feeding too early, or in excess during the first few days.

* * *

Scales on chicken's legs are caused by a mite. This mite can best be controlled and disposed of by the use of heavy black crude oil.

* * *

In the location of the poultry house, if it is impracticable to select a soil that is naturally dry it should be made dry by thorough underdrainage.

World's Races Divided.

Amphiscians are the people who inhabit the tropics, whose shadows in one part of the year are cast to the north and in the other to the south, according as the sun is north or south of their zenith.

The antiscians are the inhabitants of the earth living on different sides of the equator, whose shadows at noon are cast in contrary directions. Those living north of the equator are antiscians to those living south of that line, and vice versa. The shadows on one side are cast toward the north and upon the other toward the south.

The ascians are the people who live in a land where, at a certain time of each year, they have no shadows at noon. All the inhabitants of the torrid zone are ascians, they having a vertical sun twice a year.

The periscians are the inhabitants of the polar circle, whose shadows during some portions of the summer must in the course of the day move entirely around and fall toward every point of the compass.

Island of Crete "Upending."

In the course of a discussion on the subject of Crete at the Royal Geographical society, Prof. L. J. Myres described two remarkable changes of ground level that have occurred there since classical times, says the Scientific American.

The whole island has swung upon an axis, the eastern half sinking and the western rising, so that whereas at Hierapetra and Spinalonga the ancient quays and harbor works are now under water, the little Greek harbor of Phalasarna, at the west end of the island, is now totally upheaved, so that one can walk about on the floor of the ancient harbor, upraised and dry.

FIRST USED IN CIVIL WAR

Idea of Divisional Insignia Is Credited to General Joseph Hooker—Were Worn as Cap Ornaments.

"The divisional insignia, which was hailed as something of a novelty when it was introduced in the A. E. F., did not stand for an entirely new idea in uniform decorations for an American army," says the Home Sector, the ex-soldiers' weekly.

"Gen. Joseph Hooker—'Fighting Joe'—whose record in another American war fought sixty years ago has not been entirely submerged in the vast history that grew out of that war, had conceived the same insignia idea, and the men of the regiments fighting under him in the Civil war put on a distinctive emblem and thereby established a fashion that was adopted by all the Union forces. The idea did not die with the Civil war, for in the Spanish-American war also American soldiers wore distinctive emblems to show what organization they belonged to.

"The divisional insignia as worn by the A. E. F. was new, however, in the details of its wearing, for the soldiers of the Civil war and of the Spanish-American war did not wear cloth patches on the left shoulder. The fighting men of the Civil war wore their emblems—made of metal, with cloth centers—as cap ornaments. The soldiers of the Spanish-American war displayed their own organization marks—of enameled metal with a clasp backing—pinned to their left breast just above the pocket flap."

FINE POINT IN DRAW POKER

Would a Gentleman Take a Pot on a Hand That Was Not Dealt to Him?

Coats off, shirtsleeves rolled up, and sopping handkerchiefs bound tightly round their brows, Bloodthirsty Bill, Cheater Charlie, Daredevil Dick, the dealer, and Slasher Sam sat in solemn conclave round the table, playing a furious game of poker.

Stakes and excitement ran high. Each man seemed to hold a tiptop hand, and none would relinquish the betting. At last time came for the hands to be exposed:

"Four twos!" shrieked Bloodthirsty Bill.

"Four threes!" shouted Cheater Charlie.

"Straight flush!" roared Daredevil Dick, the dealer.

"Royal flush!" screeched Slasher Sam.

Daredevil Dick, the dealer, was staggered.

"Take it, Sam, if you've got the nerve," he muttered; "but you know it's not the hand I dealt you."—London Tit-Bits.

Plastic Dressing for Wounds.

Industrial plants are now using the Ambrine treatment for burns, scalds and all surface wounds which proved very successful for casualties incurred in the world war.

The dressing is a compound of wax and resins, and is solid when cold. It is heated to about 150 degrees Fahrenheit and applied by means of a special atomizer, or it can be generally daubed on with a soft brush. A plastic dressing, impervious to air, is thus formed, which does not adhere to the wound and which promotes the healing process without appreciable contraction. Disfigurement and scars are prevented to a greater extent than was possible under the old methods.

ASSEMBLY RESENTS THOMPSON CHARGE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—The state assembly today resented, strenuously, the charge of Senator George F. Thompson that liquor was freely distributed among assemblymen on the night of the ousting of the five Socialist members to bribe their votes, and that while the ouster proceedings were on the lower house of the legislature resolved itself into a drunken orgy.

Member after member joined in the field day of denunciation of the Niagara senator. They hurled threats of meting out physical injury to the legislator who openly charged that assemblymen had to be carried out of the chamber because of excessive drinking. They called him a "malicious, wanton liar," branded him as "dishonest" and asserted that Mr. Thompson "deserves the contempt of everybody" and should be ostracized from the society of decent men" and then adopted a resolution refusing him all privileges in the assembly and requesting the senate to expunge his remarks from the senate record.

Assemblymen eager to retort to the charges, answered them heatedly at the start of the day's sessions.

"I don't drink," declared Assemblyman Jesse, of New York. "I was in this chamber throughout the night when the vote was taken on the ousting of the Socialists. I was awake. I know a man when he is drunk and I want to say that Senator Thompson's remarks were a malicious slander and an infamous and deliberate lie. The man who uttered them is a deliberate, wanton liar and I won't claim the immunity the state constitution offers me for making that statement.

"If the people of the state knew Senator Thompson's mental capacity as we know it, there would be no reason to even answer these charges. We know he is not responsible. He is a contemptuous liar and deserves the contempt of every one. He should be ostracized from the society of decent men'."

Assemblyman Martin McCue, New York, Democrat, declared Thompson to be "dishonest."

"We are going to have a lot more Thompsons," he warned. "The skunk season has arrived and they are out now. They will always be found in legislative bodies. Senator Thompson is the most contemptible kind of a liar and I do not see how the members of the senate can stand him."

Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier, who offered the resolution against Thompson, made the threat of physically injuring him.

"If it were not for my wife and daughter and for the fact of my being a member of this house, I want to tell' you that either George Thompson or myself would be in the hospital," he said. "And when this house adjourns he may yet receive that physical punishment he so richly deserves," he added.

Mr. Cuvillier charged that William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, which is backing prohibition enforcement legislation pending in the legislature, is back of Thompson's charges.

Two women members of the assembly—Miss Gillett and Miss Smith—denied seeing evidences of liquor on the night of the Socialist ouster vote.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—The assembly today will be asked to adopt a resolution declaring Senator George F. Thompson's charge that "liquor was on hand over in the assembly and used during the process of getting votes to expel the Socialists," unwarranted and untruthful and requesting the senate to expunge the charge from the records. The lower house will also be asked to sanction denial of the privileges of the floor to the Niagara senator.

PROBE IN TEACHERS SALARY BILL ASKED

HIS VAST WEALTH A CURSE

Sudden Possession of Immense Riches Too Much for Mental Stability of Mexican Indian.

Confined in an asylum for the insane in Mexico is a millionaire who never enjoyed a cent of his fortune, though for a time he had it in his possession in cash. The amazing story of this man to whom wealth proved a curse, is told by G. F. Weeks in the Wide World Magazine.

Juvencio Robles, a full-blooded Mexican Indian, was born in a palm leaf hut in the little town of Panuco, inland from Tampico. From earliest childhood he was forced to work, his wages amounting to less than 50 cents a week. When arrived at manhood he married and from then on turned his earnings over to his wife as banker. For several years he led a colorless existence, scrimping along day by day and saving little. Then one day some friends inveigled him into a card game. Fortune was with him and he won what was a great sum to them, $18. This he invested in a small butcher shop. The market thrived and a few years later he was able to buy some land on which to fatten cattle. When oil was discovered at Tampico his ranch was in the heart of the field. He was offered 1,000,000 pesos and yearly royalties for the oil rights on his land. This he accepted, but demanded payment in gold.

The money was delivered to him as he requested, and from then on his sole interest in life consisted in guarding his treasure. He slept on a box filled with coins and refused to eat for fear his family would poison him. At last his mania reached such a stage that that it was necessary to have him confined.

RAIL LINE CROSSES OCEAN

Remarkable Trip That Is Taken by Travelers on Their Way to Key West, Florida.

Thousands of Americans at the vacation time of the year take the only ocean trip which can be made on a railroad train, writes "Nikoah" in the Chicago News. They go to Key West by way of the line which runs through the Atlantic ocean on an embankment built from one to another of those tiny islands known as the Florida keys.

As you ride along this remarkable railroad, you look out the window and down into the clear shallow water and see great schools of fish playing near the surface, and deeper down you can glimpse now and then the shadowy form of a small shark. On either side of you reaches away to the horizon a vast expanse of brilliant blue water, dotted with islands, which vary in size from a fraction of an acre, to perhaps a quarter of a square mile. They are low and flat and covered with low-growing mangroves, and other swamp plants. Here and there a group of cocoanuts or royal palms lifts a feathery silhouette. Occasionally a little shack is glimpsed, and a few sails are seen in the distance, but for the most part the region is a wilderness of blue water, white sand and low-growing jungle—a wilderness that you would love to explore in a small boat.

Of life you see little. Now and then white flocks of ibises rise from the islands; a few dark [illegible] clumsily away from the train, or a great blue heron trails his legs in lonely dignity across the sky. For the most part silence and sunlight own the place.

WILL PROTECT PUBLIC INTEREST

Bill to Put Teeth Into the Anti-Monopoly Law Now Before the Senate.

TO STOP PROFITEERING.

Proposed Law Gives Every Citizen the Right to Petition the Court for an Injunction Where the Employer and Workmen Get Together to Boost Prices.

Albany, April 12.—A practical effort to break the "endless chain" whereby wages are advanced to meet the high cost of living and the cost of living is increased by the boost in wages is being made at Albany. One step in this direction is to "put teeth" into the anti-monopoly statutes which are incorporated in the General Business Law, sections 340 and 341.

Under the law as it stands prosecutions are in the hands of District Attorneys whose administration is necessarily subject to political influence. At all events the statute as it stands has become practically a dead letter. Wages may be increased and the profits of the employer also increased while the general public is called upon to foot the bill. In the negotiations between employer and employee the general public has no voice.

A Day in Court.

The amendment to the General Business Law introduced by Senator Law of Westchester adds a new section to the anti-monopoly provisions of the statute which seeks to give every citizen his day in court, his just opportunity to restrain any such combination when it threatens loss or damage to his interests.

Amendment to the Business Law Provided in the Proposed Statute.

§ 341-a. Any person, firm or corporation shall be entitled to sue for and have injunctive relief against threatened loss or damage by a violation of any provision of section three hundred and forty, when and under the same conditions and principles as injunctive relief against threatened conduct that will cause loss or damage is granted by courts of equity under the rules governing such proceedings. A preliminary injunction may issue pending the trial of any such action to restrain threatened irreparable and immediate loss or damage.

Why the Bill Should Pass.

This amendment was formulated as an answer to a bill emanating from certain labor unions that have taken an extreme position in the opposite direction, seeking to protect rather than to discountenance monopoly. The bill, which was introduced by Senator Carroll of Brooklyn, is vicious and must be beaten.

The amendments contained in the Carroll bill are designed to exempt anything which is done in the name of a labor union from the penalties of the Anti-Trust Law of the state, commonly referred to as the Donnelly law, and from the provisions of the penal code, forbidding agreements, combinations or conspiracies in restraint of trade, and acts injurious to trade or commerce.

In express terms it provides that no person shall be sued, indicted, prosecuted or tried in any court of law or equity of this state for any act in pursuance of any arrangement, agreement or combination with a view to lessening the number of hours of labor or of increasing wages or bettering the condition of workingmen.

Dangerous Provisions.

To the casual observer the Carroll bill would seem to be harmless legislation. To those who look beneath the surface it is evident that it is a dangerous bill. It permits labor leaders to go to any extreme under the guise of increasing wages and bettering the condition of workingmen. Its purpose is to permit labor leaders to dictate to the employers in every industry, as they have already done in some lines, notably the photo engraving trade, the prices which the employers shall charge the consuming public for their goods. And the labor representatives who are working for the adoption of the Carroll bill admit this purpose and declare an intention to force the adoption of similar legislation in every state of the Union, and threaten all who attempt to oppose it.

If this sort of legislation should be enacted these labor leaders, often in combination with the employer, will dictate the retail prices of shoes, clothing, all articles of the household, farming implements and machinery, building materials, and of thousands of other articles in daily use, the price of which is already high enough.

Experience with labor leaders along the lines of the Carroll bill has already demonstrated that their intention is to raise prices, the increased profit then derived to be divided between labor and the employers at the expense of an already over-burdened public.

A Concrete Example.

In the photo engraving industry alone, combinations between labor and employers establishing a complete monopoly and fixing prices more than a hundred per cent in excess of the prices prevailing have been put into operation in upwards of thirty cities in the United States. No manufacturing photo engraver can compete with those in the combination or sell at a lower price because under agreements between labor and the employers in the combination, labor will not work for, nor permit to operate, any employer who will not join the combination and sell at the standard scale which the union has established.

The idea is not new. It is the Soviet system which is responsible for present industrial conditions in Russia. Here radical labor leaders would introduce the system under the sanction of the law without the revolution and bloodshed attending upon its application to Russia.

No matter how introduced it will have the same paralyzing effect upon the industries of the country and the patient public. Capital will not be willing under such a system to invest in or support American industries, and will look elsewhere for investment. Prices will increase to levels far beyond the reach of the majority of the people and untold suffering and misery will result.

All this will be directly sanctioned by law if the Carroll bill is passed. By its provisions labor will be permitted to go to any extreme under the guise of bettering wages and working conditions and to create combinations and monopolies, as it has already done, fixing prices and restraining trade, which are forbidden to employers and which if done by employers would draw down upon them immediate prosecution and demands for jail sentences.

The Carroll bill is class legislation of the most dangerous character, designed to permit the undermining and destruction of our American business institutions. The defeat of the Carroll bill is imperative. But defeat alone is not sufficient. The question should be disposed of once and for all. It should be recorded upon the statute books that the people of New York do not want the Soviet system.

The Law Bill.

The bill introduced in the senate by Senator Law in answer to the Carroll bill proposes an amendment to the same sections of the General Business Law making it unlawful for labor to fix the price at which employers shall sell their goods to the consuming public. This bill is necessary for the protection of the public, because the present law against monopolies and combinations is deficient and ineffective as demonstrated by the fact that certain of the radical labor organizations have already applied these Soviet methods to certain lines of industry, one striking example being mentioned above.

The Law bill will tend to keep down the high cost of living. It will prevent labor from throttling the building trade and turning the present intolerable housing situation into a nightmare.

The bill is in the public interest and should be supported by the public. Its passage by the legislature is a duty. Immediate personal demand should be made upon every member of the legislature for the performance of that duty.

Senator Root's Statement.

At the Republican State Convention at Carnagie Hall last February Senator Elihu Root in his memorable keynote address made a statement calling attention to the fact that in every dispute between capital and labor the third party in interest, the general public, had no voice, and urged upon the Republican party the importance of seeing to it that the interests of the public in the result of such disputes was more effectively conserved. Senator Law's bill is a step in the direction outlined by Senator Root as the future policy of the Republican party.

But there is nothing of a partisan character in the proposed legislation for it is also in line with the best thought and highest leadership of the Democratic party.

Five Reasons Why the Law Bill Should Be Passed and the Carroll Bill Defeated.

1. Under the Carroll bill labor unions may fix the price at which the employer shall sell his merchandise to the public.

Under the Law bill any citizen may restrain such a combination.

2. Unless the vicious cycle is broken the cost of living will continue to increase without limit.

3. In the disputes between labor and capital the general public, who always has to pay, is inevitably the victim. The Law bill affords redress. The Carroll bill legalizes monopoly and collusion.

4. The device of trusting to public prosecutors to protect the public against combinations between labor and capital has proved a dismal failure. Liberal appropriations are squandered with little or no result, but with threats, promises and bluster. The Law bill permits the citizen to protect himself by ordinary legal process.

5. The efforts of the Socialist party of America and its radical sympathizers to control the labor unions and organize a general strike makes this sort of preventive legislation imperative.

Mesopotamian Gum.

Among the gums of Mesopotamia the most valuable are the tragacanths, which are produced by tapping small shrubs. These shrubs appear to grow all over the mountains of southern Persia, and from there through the entire mountainous region which runs northwest along the frontiers of Mesopotamia, comprising areas as northern as Arabistan, Luristan-Pusht-i-Kuh country and Kurdistan. The most important collecting center for Bagdad is Suleimaniya, the capital of the Suleimaniya district of Kurdistan, situated about 120 miles northeast of Bagdad. In this area there is a regular trade in this gum for the Bagdad market.

Proof That Quality Counts.

Bischoff, the great Russian scientist and naturalist, once said "women are inferior to men because their brains are smaller and lighter." But when that man died his brain was weighed and found to be lighter than the average woman's. So it is not weight or size or sex, but quality, that makes superiority, as the presumptuous Bischoff proves.—Exchange.

CABINET STRIKE TALK FRUITLESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson's cabinet discussed the railroad strike for more than an hour and a quarter today, but no announcement was made at the conclusion of the session as to whether any action had been taken.

"We discussed the strike and I rendered a report," Mr. Palmer said. "We can make no further statement at this time, although I may be able to do so later in the day." Other members of the cabinet refused to talk.

It was learned that a plan was discussed for providing immediate increases in wages for railroad workers as one means of discouraging the present strike and forestalling further strikes. Under the plan discussed the railroad labor board, upon confirmation by the senate will meet with Attorney General Palmer and Secretary of Labor Wilson and agree upon a wage adjustment which will be temporary, but will become effective at once, and will remain in force until the railroad labor board can make a final adjustment of the wage question.

MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE GILL

In surrogate's court letters of administration have been issued to Kate R. Frear in the estate of James Frear, deceased, late of the village of Ellenville, who died intestate. John R. DeVany attorney for the petitioner.

A decree has been issued by Surrogate Gill on the appraisal by County Treasurer Lounsberry under the taxable transfer act, assessing and fixing the tax on the estate of Jacob R. McMullen, deceased, late of the town of Marbletown. Cash value of estate, $1,700; tax $34. Persons entitled to estate, Mary J. Lounsbery.

An order has been granted appraising the estate of Andrew Steltz, deceased, late of the city of Kingston, and declaring it free from taxation. Cash value of estate, $1,503. Chris A. Murray attorney for the estate.

Gibes at Men of Law.

Many uncomplimentary verdicts of lawyers may be found in Europe's history and literature. Sir Thomas More's Utopia had no lawyers, every man being left to plead his own case. Napoleon was given to stigmatizing lawyers as a class that lived on the quarrels of others and stirred up trouble as a merchant drums up trade. He once sarcastically admitted that he had never been courageous enough to adopt his plan of starving lawyers by legislation to the effect that they should not receive fees save when they won their cases.

WILL WEED OUT EXTREME MODES

Exaggerated Fashions Must Encounter Elimination Test as Season Advances.

PRETTY MODELS FOR GIRLS

Designers Seize Upon Sateens for Little Misses—Low Decolletage Not Featured—Old Laces in Demand.

Many extreme fashions are introduced at the beginning of each new season. This has always been noticeable throughout the history of clothes. It is seldom, however, observes a fashion correspondent, that the exaggerated models take root, although they flourish until the weeding out process is over—for there is always a weeding out of fashions as the season advances; then we find their best features embodied in wearable models.

At this stage of the metamorphosis of fashion the well dressed woman, who is always careful to avoid extremes, selects her wardrobe. It is important, however, from the standpoint of fashion news as well as a guide in making future selections to note the new things as they are brought out and to follow them through their various incarnations, for many of them are put forth for the new ideas that they embody. Dressmakers and manufacturers vary these ideas to suit their own clientele.

Will Straight-Line Triumph?

After the first flurry occasioned by striking models passed, the chemise frock proved to be more of a favorite than ever, because the best dressed women absolutely refused to accept anything else. It is too early to predict whether this season will see a similar triumph for the straight-line dress.

The use of the old-time light weight materials is brought about partly through these new designs and partly through the scarcity of wool fabrics. The present high price of silk, too, has had a great deal to do with making cotton fabrics popular, but even these are not inexpensive, for this summer's cotton frock will cost almost as much as last year's silken dress.

A frock illustrating a revival of three old-fashioned features has the three-tier ruffled skirt cut in petal points, the old-fashioned bertha draped about the shoulders and the very old-time rococo applique ribbon and chenille relief embroidery which came into prominence in the days of Marie Antoinette. This is a design which might be attractively developed as a lingerie frock for a young girl, with a simple embroidery substituted for the more ornate relief work.

Voiles and Dimities.

Among the cotton things which we will wear are fine, sheer, flowered voiles that are almost like chiffons, as well as old-fashioned cross-barred dimities, very fine in weave and of silky finish. These have the bars marking off tiny squares. One seldom sees white dimity in the coming summer's frocks, the preference being for pale shades of pink, blues and lavenders.

Then there are the beautiful dotted muslins from Switzerland. These are in deeper colorings than the voiles and dimities, some even being in bright reds and purples dotted with a contrasting color. The dots are very small and close together.

English sateens are now used extensively by smart dressers. Frocks of the plain colored sateens were seen early last summer among the collections of clothes at exclusive dressmakers', but they were not adopted to any extent, being looked upon as a novelty. This spring will see any number of dresses made of English sateens. It is not, however, the plain colored sateen that is most prominent, although this is used to some extent. Printed sateens in designs very much like the English prints are smarter.

When we see a pretty model developed in this material, which has the appearance of foulard, we wonder how we could have ignored it in times when cottons had not come into the prominence that they are enjoying just now.

Pretty Models for Little Girls.

Designers of children's clothes have seized upon these English sateens to work out some interesting play clothes. There are any number of pretty models for little girls made of the figured sateen in combination with white organdie, the organdie being used for collars and cuffs as well as for sashes and belts. Some straight-line sateen frocks for tiny girls are smocked in blending colors and have sashes of white organdie; others have interesting stitchings of colored worsteds.

One jumper dress of printed sateen in a soft green shade is worked with black yarn around the neck, cap sleeves and belt, a blanket stitch being used. For tiny tots there are amusing play clothes of pink and light blue sateens without a design. These are made just like smocks and worked in worsteds. On the pockets are embroidered Kate Greenaway figures. Mothers may not care to dress their children regularly in clothes of this sort, but they are most amusing as play aprons for the nursery.

Flounces and frills have brought about a great use of net, which is most popular at a time when fluffy dresses are worn. Dressmakers are reveling in its use and everybody is wearing it. A great deal may be expressed through net, depending upon the colors chosen and the method of handling it. An older woman may wear with great dignity a black net dress, beautifully draped, while for a debutante a bright, billowy, tulle frock may be extremely informal.

Among the more elaborate black tulle frocks are some lavishly embroidered in crystal and silver beads. A beautiful one has a bright note of color introduced through an apron effect of bright peacock blue tulle, which is laid in full plaits, the apron being draped at the sides to give the effect of a tulle pannier.

Low Decolletage Not Featured.

Many of the smartest tulle dresses do not feature the extremely low decolletage. Some of them have little more than the shallow round neckline that extends out on the shoulders after the manner of a street frock. The transparency of the material, however, gives the effect of a low decolletage.

If you have any old laces put away, now is the time to use them. Entire dresses are being made of bands of lace joined together. Where the strips of lace are sewn together, metal embroideries are of silver, a little silver ribbon in the form of a girdle or shoulder straps is a delightful addition to the dress, especially if the lace is black.

So great is the demand for lace that the lacemaking industry of England and France has been given great impetus. In fact, it is almost impossible for the supply to meet the demand at the present time. Laces and nets not only make entire frocks, but are used as trimmings in a most lavish way. High wired lace collars somewhat like the Medici collars are introduced on many afternoon frocks, and even cloth dresses have entire fronts formed of frills of net.

Physical Culture and Massage.

To improve the contour of the face, neck or arms physical culture exercises, in combination with massage, will work wonders where a woman is persevering and persistent in her efforts.

Republican Party's Birthplace.

Jackson, Mich., is considered the birthplace of the party, as it was at that city that the first Republican convention was held on July 6, 1854. The meeting was called to order at Bronson's hall, but there being a crowd of 5,000 wanting to get into a hall with a capacity of 600, it was adjourned to an oak grove at the edge of the city, at a point now known as the corner of Washington avenue and Second street. For this reason the convention is spoken of as "Under the Oaks." A convention had previously been held at Kalamazoo on June 21, but it was at Jackson that the party first was organized and a platform adopted.

GALWAY HAS IRISH SOVIET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 14.—The first Irish soviet has been formed at Galway. The workers who joined the Irish general strike formed a local council and announced that they would control the city for the duration of the strike.

According to the Daily Herald, the official organ of the labor party, the council of the Federation of Railwaymen has demanded that a meeting of the "triple alliance" be held to support the Irish general strike.

"The triple alliance" is the most powerful labor organization in Great Britain. It is composed of the railway workers, the coal miners and the transport workers.

A report was circulated here that the Irish strikers had cut the telephone and telegraph wires connecting northern and southern Ireland, but this was denied by the post office department. The local post office department at Dublin sent word to the government this morning that the situation was unchanged.

The possibility that the government would change its attitude regarding the treatment of prisoners in the Mount Joy Jail aroused high speculation. The strike was called in protest against the manner in which the British authorities were handling the prisoners. According to the Manchester Guardian, the government has telegraphed to Dublin ordering the prison officials to treat Sinn Feiners "like other ordinary untried cases."

The press continues to take a serious view of the situation.

"The occasion is so exceptional and momentous that we look to the government to take a broad and generous view and to replace logic with statesmanship," said the Daily Mail.

"The decision announced by A. Bonar Law that the government will not interfere in the treatment of Sinn Fein prisoners is too narrow in its conception and wrong," said the Times.

"We ought to demonstrate that, behind the new home rule proposals, lie the confidence and good will of Great Britain."

"Some extremely undesirable results must be faced if some of the hunger striking prisoners die in jail, but on the other hand if the government capitulated it would be worse," said the Chronicle.

An effort by the Irish Republicans to secure the intervention of John W. Davis, the United States ambassador to Great Britain, resulted in the following message from the diplomat, bearing out a similar statement made by the American consul at Dublin:

"Lord Mayor O'Neill, Dublin. Sir—The American consul was correct in his statement that my powers do not enable me to make any representations except on behalf of citizens of the United States."

MORE RETURN TO WORK IN WEST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, April 14.—The switchmen's strike situation throughout the west continued to improve today, according to reports received here from various points and the claims of railroad officials.

Decision of the railroad unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to condemn the strike leaves the strikers and their newly formed organization, the Yardmen's Association, completely isolated from the support of all other labor organizations. This, combined with the active hostility of the big railroad brotherhoods, the threat of federal prosecution and a marked public sentiment against the strike apparently has caused the switchmen to realize that their chances of victory are remote.

In Chicago, the railroads began lifting freight embargoes and announced their determination to restore the traffic movement to normal. Many freight houses were opened, accepting both incoming and outgoing freight, and groups of the strikers were reported as drifting back to work. While they were returning to their old jobs, switching crews brought in by the brotherhoods were arriving in force.

ARIZONA BORDER WANTS GUARDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Douglas, Ariz., April 14.—Urgent appeals for more troops to guard the Sonora boundary were sent to Arizona representatives in congress today by residents of Douglas, Bisbee and Nogales. The imminence of hostilities between General Calles' Sonora forces and Carranzistas has made them fearful of the results to American lives and property.

All Mexican border towns are being heavily fortified. The appeals for aid recited that there is not a single artillery unit along the Arizona border and that the infantry and cavalry forces are insufficient.

Thousands of Yaqui Indians in Sonora are well armed and may divide between the Sonora revolutionary forces and those of the federal government, despite their chief having sworn allegiance to the new republic of Sonora.

War-Torn Villages Arising.

Villages in the vicinity of St. Quentin, France, are literally rising phoenixlike from their own ashes. Confronted by a lack of stone and building materials, the artisans have established a big grinding machine in which the debris of the shell-shattered houses is remade into mortar.
